Physical Characteristics

- Height: 170cm (5'7")
- Mass: 57kg (125lbs)
- Measurements: 34C/28/34

Build and Skin Color: Athena has a build typical for a Caesolian, slender but very toned. But being a transfer from a Plebeian body, she chosen to retain her olive skin tone. Athena is also short compared to other typical Caesolians.

Eyes and Facial Features: The transfer to her new body has “corrected” much of her facial structure to align with what Elysians considered more pure. Though traces of her high cheekbones, pronounced nose, and heart shaped face still remain. The color of her eyes changed from brown to a golden yellow.

Ears: Normal for an Elysian.

Hair Color and Style: Athena has white silvery hair with violet highlights she keeps somewhat long past her shoulders, usually keeping it up in an elaborate pony tail or some other style keeping it up.

Distinguishing Features: Athena has a small depression on the left side of her nose, a “gift” she got when one of the blisters she had gotten from a disease deflated inwards. She had it programmed into her new body as a further reminder of her roots. In addition, Athena has white feathers with black tips on her wings.

Psychological Characteristics

Personality: Athena has always been more ambitious than most within her station in life. Since receiving her new body, it has only grown even more. But formerly being a Plebeian, she is still somewhat more submissive to those higher in rank than her, highly honoring the rank structures she is in. Athena does not really have the disdain that most other Elysians have for other species. She would much prefer to be around those of her own kind, but understands that you can “catch more flies with honey than with vinegar”. As such she seems much more friendly than what most expect from an Elysian.

- Likes: Close combat, helping others, having opportunities to shine, dueling
- Dislikes: Extremely despises the NMX, intolerance, stagnation in her life
- Goals: To prove her worth in life in order to become a Patrician. Athena also hopes successfully create a foothold for the church within Yamatai someday.

History

Family (or Creators)

- Darios Stamoules (Father, deceased)
- Accalian Stamoules (Mother, deceased)

The names of her parents are unknown to Athena.

Pre-RP

Athena was orphaned when she was a toddler thanks to the third Elysian war with Yamatai. She was fortunate to be elsewhere with her grandparents when The Heavens were destroyed, killing her parents along with them. Only a small memento given to her when she was a baby reminds her of them. Instead she views the Church as her family, being sent to an orphanage as what family she did have left abandoned her. To this day, she still does not know how her parents were killed.

With the orphanage being more inclined towards religious and military studies than usual, the rigorous religious education she received from the clergy that ran the establishment. The other weapons instructors consisting of former members of the Celestial Navy and the odd mercenary that trained the children in the basics of using ranged weapons, map reading, and other basic soldiering tasks. One of the oddities of her training that Athena remembered was that one of the mercenary instructors was a Neplesian who taught some of the children in the use of Yamataian melee weapons, most notably katanas. While most balked to even pick up the weapon, Athena had no real problems in asking for additional training from him.

Athena received some fundamental education such as math and language classes as well at the orphanage until she was 13. With the new government establishing the compulsory education system for plebeians, she was sent to a nearby college for the rest of her education. Understanding that she would never be adopted at such a late age, there was no longer a need for her to be at the orphanage all the time. The fact that they could use the resources being used on her to help a greater number of younger orphans helped influence the decision as well.

When she finally came to age, she was given a Caelosian body as an award. Falling in love with melee weapons and wanting more excitement in her life, she decided to join the military. She received some training to become an officer in the Celestial Navy towards the end of her education at the college. But with the Elysian nation once again in the fold of the Yamatai Empire, the only place she could be productive was with the Star Army of Yamatai, the same military responsible for the death of her forgotten parents.

Viewing it as an opportunity to be both a cultural liaison between the two nations and to be a missionary of the church to lesser souls. She reluctantly stepped on to transport to Yamatai a few weeks later.

RP

Shortly after graduating from medic training, Athena received her orders assigning her to the YSS Aeon. She spent 6 months on board before receiving orders of transfer to the YSS Integrity and then to Task Force Lantern, before landing up at Fort Minori where she has spent the remainder of her career at this point taking care of soldiers stationed there.

YE 41 6月, Athena was honorably discharged from service after 9 years within the SAoY. She currently debates staying within proper Yamatai space or to make her return home to Elysian space to be among her people once more.
