Physical Description

Claire looks to be in her late thirties, with subtly wavy hair flowing down her back. While working, locks of that hair tend to flow in front of her eyes, so she always seems to be in the process of tucking some behind her ear. She tends to wear pantsuits and pencil skirts while on the job, though her lack of physical exercise tends to fill out her curves more than she'd like. At work, she tends to wear makeup, including red lipstick, and all of this coupled with her rimmed glasses gives her the vibe of a librarian.

Personality

Claire is someone who tries hard on the job to look well-put-together as a consummate professional, however, any glimpse into her life outside of work or when no one else on the station is watching would totally ruin the facade. Away from prying eyes, she is lazy, messy, and gives up on all efforts to maintain her appearance. Woe betide anyone from surprising her on her day off, because it's equal odds that she simply sleeps through any knocks on her door or shows up hungover and angry that you woke her up.

Claire is the type of person to avoid joining her co-workers for drinks after work unless sufficiently coerced or guilted into it, much preferring to stay indoors with a bottle of whiskey, wine or soju, reading a romance novel for companionship. Her job and life have stayed the same for so long, she's rather developed a rut, but perhaps being jolted out of that rut will change quite a bit...

History

Claire was born 5 years on Planet Yamatai before the standard calendar began, graduating from school and the military academy that followed without issues or, sadly, friends. She was recruited by an element that would eventually integrate to become SAINT many years later, and served in the Logistics Liaison's Office for many different intelligence assets. Eventually, with the tension that led up to the first Misshu war, she was stationed on the YOMI sensor station LRS-7, now formally a Santo Hei within the LLO of the SAINT organization. New uniforms, new name, same job. While coordinating yet another routine supply drop for a scout group, the station was attacked, and a great rend in the wall of the station was all she saw before passing out. Unbeknownst to her, following the battle, she was rescued as one of the few survivors of the already sparsely populated station, and put on ice as her wounds healed. It has been some time since then, and her cryo tube lies amongst others, but hers is of a distinctly older design, and crusted with frost...

Skills Learned

Firearms - She took the same training as everyone else, including the supplemental training to repel station boarders, though that was many years ago, and she'd rather avoid testing her skills in this area. Technology (probably outdated) Logistical Planning - If Microsoft Excel existed in this universe, she'd be a whiz at it. Astronomical Navigation & Pathfinding - Her knowledge of space maps may be outdated, but she is a dab hand at managing supply routes.
