Personality

Ema is an ENFJ<sup>1)</sup> personality type. She was a very warm, welcoming demeanor which plays very well into her love for her community. Her passion for helping others and intuitive natures keeps her involved with coming up with solutions to problems or conflicts that arise. At her core she is able to understand and share the concerns of the community above her needs or concerns as in individual. This makes her a staunch advocate for positive changes for those she comes in to contact with. When in negotiations or debates she is receptive to the importance that everyone get a fair chance in expressing themselves fully even if she does not necessarily agree with them.

History

Ema Himari was born as on Anisa III in the last hours of YE 23 to Haruto and Chiyo Himari, both NH-22C Yamataian. She is the oldest of five siblings which means keeping peace as the only daughter of the bunch took some negotiating skills. Her family was among the first to join in the effort of terraforming and colonizing the planet. This cultivated in her from a very young age a deep passion for the health and growth of its people. Often times throughout her childhood she would either be seen with her family helping in the agricultural and colonization efforts wherever she could. Throughout her early education she demonstrated an interest in the history of the Yamatai Star Empire and pondered how the people of Anisa could help contribute to its success. Inevitably as her younger siblings got into arguments she would often be the one to bring about peace through thoughtful discussion, always keeping a calm and level head. One great scandal from these years that affected the community was Senator Maximillian Alphonse's influenced proposal Proposal #81 - Repealing of Taisho Yui's Species Restrictions and the subsequent Species Restriction Order of YE 29. Not only had it left the Third Expeditionary Fleet under manned it caused some turmoil amongst the populace.

However, these political conflicts were shortly thereafter resolved thus bringing the Third Expeditionary Fleet headquarters back to the system. Shortly after her tenth birthday, in early YE 34 the entire family upgraded to age appropriate Minkan bodies. Even at only ten years old she knew, albeit to a vague degree, the importance of strong integrated ties with the entire Yamatai Star Empire. When debates were transmitted for public viewing she would be an avid observer, she found them all quite intriguing dances of the political sciences. As she entered her early teen years she felt a calling to do more volunteer work around the community. This enabled her to meet the wide variety of beings that had come to call Anisa home. She even assisted in yielding aid to the refugees from the United Outer Colonies, because she felt if someone sought refuge on the planet she had called home, they should feel welcome. In fact she leaped for pure joy when she found out that Senator Yuki Asunana had arranged for the construction of new cities to accommodate the influx of refugees.

This eventually culminated in her dedicated pursuit of experience in the political realm. While she was working towards her degree in political science at university she was working with local leaders to get hands on experience. Her aptitude for resolving conflict and keeping a cool head during debates really struck a cord with the politicians that she spent time with. Several of them encouraged her to actively pursue a position in politics. After earning her degree she spent a couple years working deeper with the community and other politicians and she realized that the Senate of Yamatai was her calling. She felt that she would be an excellent representative for the people and could do her best work for them in that position.
