Physical Description

Originally born a human, Kamiya Misakura has gone through a series of upgrades to become currently a Type 33A Nekovalkyrja. She stands at the standard 180cm and weighs 67kg. Her original hair and eye colors were dark brown. But she has customized her body to have gradient gray hair that she likes to keep short and pink eyes. She has a row of six (three upright, three upside down triangles) Neko genetic tattoos under her eyes.

Her body build can be described as athletic on the slim side. (34D-24-35)

Personality

While she might maintain the facade of a nice person, deep down Misakura is a downright prick. She is quite willing to bend morals and hide behind them with it suits her agenda. Despite this fault, she is utterly loyal to Yamatai and to those that prove to be useful enough to invest her time with. Since her time working with the Nepleslians as an exchange soldier, her deviant tendencies have been focused more by the discipline she has maintained since being a Giretsu.

History

Born in YE 15, Kamiya Misakura's life was one of a dysfunctional family always on the move. She would do her best to spend as little time around her drunk laborer that was her father when she was old enough. Sometimes it was being a studious student at school, other times it was being a delinquent sukeban when school wasn't satisfying her need for entertainment. Ultimately, being a sukeban was the side of her that won out. But she was able to graduate from compulsory education with acceptable marks.

In YE 38, at the onset of the Kuvexian War, Misakura enlisted into the Star Army of Yamatai looking for a thrill in her life. Her aptitude tests were high enough that she was given a slot in the fighter pilot initial training. But the life of a pilot was not in her cards as she crashed one too many starfighters before her final graduation exam.

Thus despite getting through the majority of her training with decent marks, she was washed out and transferred over to space infantry training as a Yonto Hei at the end of YE 39. Her career would not remain in the toilet forever for after a year of proving herself, she managed to successfully strike for the School of Advanced Infantry Combat.

After graduation, she would find herself assigned to the 2nd Legion's Giretsu Century, Bravo platoon. Her platoon was sent on an ill-planned boarding attempt of one of the Kuvexian's carriers holding a key anchor point in their formation during the Battle of Hanako's Star a few months later. The desperate attempt seemed to be anticipated and her platoon barely got out their boarding vessel before they were repelled and picked off.

Thanks the YSS Sakishima arriving, Kamiya and a portion of her platoon managed to escape being wiped out and hope their savior pod is among the rescued ones. She remained on the YSS Sakishima, helping the ship survive long enough to sputter back to Nataria.

She remained on Nataria without a unit until the 3rd Battle of Nataria. There she met Mizumitsu Hiroshiko and Mikael Harris, a pair of long lost family members. After the battle and with the urging of Mikael Harris, she applied to be an exchange soldier. She was surprised she was accepted given her training history.

She was assigned to the NSS Wrath of Nepleslia, where she was assigned to a marine squad lead by Staff Sergeant Voros. She saw action within the Battle Of Glimmergold where she defended the Wrath of Nepleslia against the attacking Kuvexian forces.

In YE 44, Misakura completed Giretsu Instructor training and was assigned to the School of Advanced Infantry. She remained there until the last Giretsu Class (Class 27) graduated in late YE 44. After the transformation of the School of Advanced Infantry School into a course for Star Army Infantry \(Ranger Qualified\)s, she was assigned to an infantry century within the Ninth Area Army at Fujiko.
