Physical Description

Red hairs, usually made into dreads on the back and normal hairs on the side/fronts, met with sparkling green eyes. Fit body with the right curves in the right places; they are set she doesn't hold back from boasting and showing off. Maybe slightly too heavy on the chest but by her words "I like to see boys' mind go boom when they get a sneak peak down there." In general, she does little to hide her body and look less than she is, quite the opposite in truth as she rarely loose a chance to show herself off. And she is high, at least for the standard Nekoalkyrja, with her 170 cm of height.

She has got herself a set of clip rings to use as septum and nose rings: as they do not pierce the skin, she doesn't have to worry about her body rejecting them too fast to hold.

Personality

Bold, blunt and cheeky: this is how she is. She hardly holds what she thinks back and she won't make a mystery she would like to see you go boom, be it in a good or bad way. But yet, she gets the work done, so she gets tolerated, at least most of the times.

As long as there is fun or thrill to be had, she is in; life is one, and for as long as it can be being a Nekoalkyrja, it is still too short so she really will do her best to not miss any beat. This leads people to see her as a superficial being which, from one point of view, she is but it's not all.

She enjoys practising sports, mainly basketball but she is known to play aerial football. The reasons are multiple: she enjoys the exercise, as well as the competition and fight-mechanics triggered during a match and, in her own words "You know how hot I look in that sport outfits?!"

History

Born YE 38, after the basic training between a soldier status and a technician status, she chose to be the one making, or breaking, things; she wouldn't get big medals or recognition by the public but for sure it was more interesting in her view and let her experiment... which might not be much on one side, but on the other let her use technology which a civilian could hardly see.

She soon specialized in explosives, "such a vibrant field" in her own words, reaching the role of explosive technician before being assigned to the 17th Strategic Bomber Group "Dragons" as a bombardier. The reason of such assignment is debatable: be skills or just as far as possible for the commanding officer of the time, is unknown and anyone's guess. What is known is that poop for the enemies of the Yamatai Empire is coming right down!
