Physical Description

Signe's golden eyes are framed by ice blue hair that seem to flow like ocean waves in the wind, brushing just to the tops of her shoulders, the white tips rest softly against the lightly tanned skin of her shoulders which are dotted with freckles that cover her body like countless small pebbles along a beach. A cute, rosy-cheeked face is supported by a strong jawline, lending an intensity to her otherwise quiet soft features that matches her gentle and quiet tone. Middling height for a neko, just over five feet with a body to match her face and voice, softer and gentler than one might expect but well supported and strong. The curves of her body show off her love for baking in the most pleasant of ways, just the right amount of pleasant squish while still holding a soft feminine shape.

Personality

Born in a batch where her sisters had no desire to create familial relationships, she satisfies her desire to care for others by pouring her heart and soul into her medic work. She is a kind, quiet, but firm force in the medic bay whose presence is rarely heard but always felt.

Her spare time is often spent researching or preparing for the next day of work. If she does happen to find herself with time for a hobby she will often resort to baking or gardening as a way to ease her mind while still feeling somewhat productive.

She is good with people she feels comfortable around, yet often seems cold and unapproachable to those she is unfamiliar with. Her mood is even and calm most of the time, with a few exceptions, but when she does lose her temper, it is big and not easily forgotten.
