Character Description

Physical Appearance

Kyōko has an athletic build with defined musculature, possesses a modestly sized bust, and is a bit taller than the average for a nekovalkyrja. She also has sun-darkened, lightly tanned skin. Her eyes are a crystal-clear sky-blue – almond-shaped as is the case with most neko and yamataians. Her face is also fairly attractive, though appears more mature than most neko with an apparent age of being in her late twenties. Kyōko possesses ruby-red hair that extends as far as her neck, in addition to pointed nekovalkyrja ears; the tips of which are covered by soft red fur.

Personality

Kyōko is fairly tomboyish, self-confident and boasts a friendly and actively outgoing personality with a love for socializing and friendly teasing. She is also quite competitive in her role as a starship technician and likes to be the best at what she does – in the event she finds someone more skilled than herself Kyōko strives to match their ability and learn from them all she can.

Having spent her career in the technical track of the Star Army, Kyōko has shown that she is quite technically proficient and skilled in starship maintenance and engineering. She often studies and retrain in her off-hours to build-up and broaden the base of her technical knowledge, further improving her engineering skills.

Kyōko is also quite athletic, with a fondness for outdoor sports; she spends much of her leave pursuing activities that challenge herself physically, such as mountain climbing and the like.

History

Pre-RP

Kyōko was created in YE 31, underwent the standard basic training for the Star Army of Yamatai at Fort Victory Reserve Center, then received her supplementary technical training at the Ketsurui Academy where she showed considerable aptitude in most of her areas of study, though she primarily specialized in aether-based powerplants and drives, hyperspace drives, environmental systems and CFS technologies.

Late that year, her first assignment was aboard YSS Cocoon; an Anri-Class Deep-Space Repair Vessel assigned to the First Expeditionary Fleet where she gained a fair amount of experience working as part of the vessels engineering department, assisting in the repair of numerous starships throughout the Second Mishhuvurthyar War. During the course of her work aboard the Cocoon, Kyōko was promoted to Nitō Hei in recognition of improved experience and ability.

In YE 33 Kyōko was assigned to Gemini Star Fortress, where she served in the star fortresses KFY engineering division, assisting in the construction of several new warships and gaining an increased familiarity with starship engineering and design. During her assignment there in early YE 34, Kyōko was again promoted to the rank of Ittō Hei.

In Roleplay

Recently, Kyōko has been reassigned to the Black Knights.

Skill Areas

Communications

Due to a combination of both her basic Star Army training and supplementary technical training, Kyōko possesses considerable knowledge about the operation of various kinds of communication devices in use by the Star Army, in addition to knowing the operational procedures surrounding their use. Kyōko is fully capable of both sending and receiving transmissions through use of headsets, starships, power armor, and shuttles, whilst either in or out of combat. Additionally, through a mixture of training and life experience Kyōko has become skilled in the use of the innate wireless and telepathic communication abilities possessed by nekovalkyrja.

Kyōko is fluent in Yamataian and Nepleslian, and is able to utilize both their spoken and written forms with the level of skill needed to perform mundane tasks such as write reports, fill out forms, issue orders etc.

Fighting

As part of her basic Star Army, Kyōko received the standard course in hand-to-hand combat, followed with a rigorous training program. As such, she is proficient enough in melee combat to fight unarmed against enemy soldiers both in standard Yamatai-like conditions, or even in zero-gravity.

Several types of military weaponry that Kyōko has been trained to utilize in combat include various energy pistols, knives, and power armor fielded by the Star Army of Yamatai.

Technology Operation

Like most Star Army soldiers, Kyōko is trained in the use of computer systems that rely upon the Kessaku OS which is commonly found upon Star Army vessels. Her technical training and experience also lends her some skill in computer programming.

Due to her technical training and engineering experience, Kyōko is proficient in the use of a wide range of technician tools, engineering related devices and mechanical systems commonly found in various Star Army vehicles and starships.

Mathematics

Kyōko has received the standard array of mathematics training supplied to new Star Army soldiers, allowing her to use mathematical disciplines such as algebra and trigonometry proficiently.

Maintenance and Repair

Through both her technical training and throughout the course of her assignment aboard the YSS Cocoon, Kyōko has gained considerable knowledge and experience related to starship system repair. She also constantly studies and retrains herself to remain up-to-date with the newest advances in technology, ensuring she is ready when new systems are fielded by the Star Army and that she is always able to perform her duties as a technician.

Engineering

With her broad base of training and technical knowledge to draw upon, Kyōko has the skills required to design and engineer new mechanical devices should the need arise.

Physical

Kyōko maintains a regular schedule of exercise, lending her strength, agility and speed all at or near the upper limits for a standard NH-33 Nekovalkyrja. She is capable of displaying considerable physical endurance, allowing her to perform exhausting physical activity for long periods of time.

She also pursues several physically-intensive hobbies, such as swimming, long-distance running, and rock climbing which she likes to perform when granted leave planet-side.
