Pre-RP

Rascoe Voe was born into a middle class family of spacers in YE 13. Both her father and mother were merchants aboard the third merchant vessel in a fleet of four. The tradition of this "fleet" was that each crew member must get the ship's number tattooed on their left shoulder, and Voe was no exception once she turned thirteen. Afterwards, she was trained by her parents in the family trade. However, she yearned for more in life than just constant travel with the same boring ship... the same boring crew... She did develop a close relationship with her older sister, whom seemed to have an even greater affinity for commerce than her.

In YE 25, while exploring her home for the millionth time, disaster occurred. Her curiosity got the best of her as she watched some machinery moving this way and that in the engineering bay of the merchant ship. Long story short, her hand was almost torn in half. The local medical services were able to reattach her hand with no ill effects of her nervous system, but she was left with a very noticeable scar.

One day, shortly after her eighteenth birthday, she heard from one of her parents' customers that the Star Army was in need of officers with talents such as hers. Enthralled by this notion, she persuaded her parents to allow her to leave. She then went to the Kyoto War College and gained many skills as well as a commission as an officer in the Star Army of Yamatai. Her first assignment is the YSS Eucharis.

YSS Eucharis

Voe was pushed out of the Eucharis cargo bay by Helen Klein and fell to her death in the forests of HX-13. Upon revival, she was immediately transferred to Fort Minori Reserve Center in an attempt to prevent further violence.
