Psychological Characteristics

To the public, Masashi is a very enigmatic individual. From what he allows others to see, he is a handsome man that is intelligent and gives off the perception of a suave businessman. When in public, he often dresses in clothing that could be described as cold, threatening elegance with an air of formality (common for workers of the Keiretsu).

Privately, Masashi prefers to remain in the company of androids and gynoids fashioned in his own image. They are the only individuals he truly trusts, despite his preference to let his appointed CEOs within the Ryu Keiretsu function independent. As long as they follow his general guidance. He has been known to come down on subordinates that fail him like a strike of lightning however.

History

One of the most enigmatic members of the Ryu-Mizumitsu Clan and the hier to the clan, Masashi guards any past history about himself with an army of Nepleslian-trained lawyers. They have been known to launch legal torpedoes in the Democratic Imperium of Nepleslia and the Yamatai Star Empire towards anything that threatens the purely professional persona as a suave and intelligent individual.

Born in BYE 19 to the current leader of the Ryu-Mizumitsu Clan (Ryu-Mizumitsu Yuki), Masashi is the 3rd of 5 child. As such, he was never really expected to lead. As a child, he was rarely brought out to the public in Nepleslia unlike his elder sisters Megumi (1st) and Aki (2nd). When the pair were out acting as the Clan's face during ceremonies and business dealings, Masashi was kept protected in the back with his mother. As such, his main understanding of the outside world came from his sisters, mother, and their tutors.

At the start of the Second Mishhuvurthyar War in YE 31 , his family were transiting through the outskirts of the Nataria System on the way to Yamatai. Among the ships that were caught in the NMX surprise attack was the personal ship of Ryu-Mizumitsu Aki. Aki was declared dead when her ship was destroyed and no escape pods were recovered.

Prior to his marriage in YE 05, Masashi ran with a Yakuza group by the name of the "Red Wolves Group" on Nepleslia. Even after his marriage, he continued to mutually operate with them. But openly running with the wolves instead of keeping them on a leash like most clans do would be a negative mark on the Ryu-Mizumitsu. Thus Yuki set in motion a number of "clean up" operations to launder his reputation now that he was someone that mattered in her eyes beyond her baby boy.

The fall of the clan's fortunes and the chaos of the war benefited in masking a lot of the more violent actions as casualties of the war. Ryu-Mizumitsu lawyers dealt with most of the rest to maintain Masashi's enigmatic past. In YE 35, he was named the 2nd choice to be heir to the clan after the dust settled.

In YE 40, his sister Megumi stepped out of the public spot light for a few months until she reappeared stripped of her title. Marrying a "commoner" Nepleslian businessman in a secret ceremony on Nepleslia, she had caused a bit of a scandal within the clan. While the Mizumitsu and their samurai were the more opened-minded individuals culturally, the Ryu were fairly staunch conservatives that preferred the status-quo to be maintained. Since they were also the ones in control of the businesses, they were the ones that held more influence within the ruling Ryu-Mizumitsu family.

With Ryu-Mizumitsu Megumi becoming Mizumitsu Megumi, Masashi became the heir to the Ryu-Mizumitsu Clan. In YE 42 he was named the President of the new Ryu Keiretsu. He gained the position (previously operating his own shipping line) after his mother declined to take it.
