Personality

Takaki is a calm, but somewhat easily distracted neko. When she isn't distracted she can work with an almost single minded focus on a particular task with great efficiency, not getting bored. She would follow orders leading to certain death without question, but otherwise wouldn't put herself in undue risk. She is often serious and in a mood that some may consider to be grumpy, but can be quite playful and energetic at times. She enjoys dancing, and especially in groups.

History

Takaki Iki was born in YE 29.

Born among the first of the mini neko was an interesting experience for the then young Takaki Iki. She had received some biting queries about her height and her subsequently assumed inability to properly serve with the rest of the nekos. This of course led her quite eager to prove herself. She rose through the ranks during the First Mishhuvurthyar War As she served aboard the YSS Zanbaku and proved herself to be a quite capable infantry neko in the process, appearing to simply not need the strong and tall body of the average. There were close calls of course, particularly in the Second Mishhuvurthyar War. Damaged beyond repair as The YSS Zanbaku during the fighting was she could no longer serve aboard it with her fellows, not all of whom were still around to tell the tale. For her service she was gifted a Yui Scout Ceremonial Sword with the serial number of that particular ship. Around the same time, she found another calling, to become a SAINT operative, to find yamatai's enemies both within and without.

Skills Learned

Star Army Common Skills

Leadership

Throughout her career she has learned to effectively lead, inspire, and discipline her troops as needed. Though at times she may falter, she best leads through example in her bravery and skill, though also knows when it is time to retreat and remain hidden to better perform their duty at a later period.

Rogue

In her training to become a SAINT of Yamatai, she learned quite a bit of the typically associated skills. Infiltration, deception and even simple distractions all going hand in hand, tricking one's eyes and fooling one's thoughts was easy once you had it down. Similarly, tricking locks of varying types was an all too needed skill, of course she preferred to go through air vents herself.
