

Origin Industries Laundry Room

The Laundry room is a vital, if under-noted part of a starship. Without a laundry room, crews and ships would return to port smelling extremely horrid, wearing disgusting clothing and looking like trash. to combat this, Origin Industries has designed a state-of-the-art laundry room, with one-touch machines that do just about everything. Depending on the size of the room, there could be anywhere from one to fifteen machines. Each machine is operated by opening the front, putting the clothes and your desired detergent in, then closing the door and pressing the on button. the machine will then sense how much clothes have been placed inside, and start an according cycle. Once the cycle is finished, the user can remove the now fresh, dry clothes, and fold them.

Usage

This compartment is used on the following starships:

- Assayer Class Starship
