

Schongebiet System Government

Unlike the other Colonial systems in the Abwehran Star Empire, the Schongebiet system does not have a formal system government. In fact, the system's worlds normally go about their everyday business without interacting with one another politically, though trade still occurs between them. Instead, a representative from each planet gather upon Schongebiet Trade to discuss matters of trade and possible opportunities to form a system government.

Nothing really gets done at these meetings. This might have to do with the fact that the same Representatives are chosen each year and they just talk and leisure instead of formal business discussion. It has yet to be seen whether or not this will change in the future.
