

Democratic Imperium of Nepleslia

The Democratic Imperium of Nepleslia is a gritty cyberpunk nation of humans, cyborgs, and mutants that deals with high crime in its megacities. Mixing of genetic material from super-solider programs has resulted in muscular half-breeds and a population that is considerably more male than female. Nepleslia has a space navy and space marines. It was previously part of Yamatai, but it rebelled and gained its independence a little more than a decade ago.

The Democratic Imperium of Nepleslia stands for both the government and the civilization of Nepleslia in general. Originally known as the Greens, the Greens eventually, through years of constant conflict with the other party organizations on Planet Nepleslia, gained dominance and established a strong government to lead the general populace through the difficult times looming overhead.

Military

The Star Military of the Democratic Imperium of Nepleslia is considered by many to be one of the largest within the Kikyo sector, bolstered by the nationalistic duty that drives most Nepleslians to serve. In particular, it consists of multiple Military Corps, known as:

- Central Corps - High Command and Logistics (such as the Admirals and desk jockeys)

- Nepleslian Star Navy - Starship and Fighter Forces (such as Fighter Pilots or Ship Captains)
- Nepleslian Space Marine Corps - Infantry and Armored Assets (such as Hostile grunts and Corona Pilots)
- Intelligence and Pacification Group - Black Ops & Espionage (such as Spies and Commandos)

Great Things About Nepleslia

Here's what members have to say about Nepleslia:

- "I like the setting above all else here. We have some fantastic minds and players, and lots of ideas and setting elements. I like how we don't have to have the top technology points that other nations throw around to maintain our standing. I like our technology in general; the blocky ships, more familiar weapon systems and general aesthetic hit a lot closer to home in my Scifi department." I also like how our culture isn't perfect. We have crime, some poverty, a thriving black market (that I'm currently working to flesh out), and plenty of unique setting elements to present our characters. I really appreciate how Tom, Wes and the others whom first pioneered Nepleslia have left us such a nice bag of toys to play with.
- "It was a long time in coming, but I joined your ranks, and by god I'm loving every minute of it!"
- "What can I say? I've never seen anything terribly horrible about Nepleslia. The cursing and badass behavior reminds me so much of my hometown the resemblance is almost uncanny. Your mecha and starships have served my characters well.”

- “Your GMs never cease to amaze me, your plots are fun. I only wish your I had more time and I would join one.”
- “It really has been quite a while since I actually got into you, but the gritty realistic future feeling is so refreshing in this setting.”
- “Badassery Ahoy! You guys always continue to push the boundaries with awesomeness and big weapons unparalleled! Rock on Moon, Koku, Roscoe, Sub and whoever else is involved!”
- “Military Sci-fi oh how I love thee. This is where you get your jackboots on, and pretend to be a Starship Trooper”

OOO Notes

Wes or Tom likely created this article a long while ago. Correct me if I'm wrong ^^
