About the Mako'sa Kyn

The Mako'sa Kyn is a compact device for viewing text data (stories, reports, messages), images (still and video), and even sending data via electronic transmission. The unit will automatically orient the image based on how it is being held. The display is a touch screen which allows the user to enter data or make selections by hand or stylus. There are controls on two of the sides and their function depend on the mode. Typically the larger control is to select, and the smaller controls move through the options.

Features

- Touch screen, with user selectable color schemes
- Rechargeable power cell, six hours of continuous operation.
- Integrated speaker
- 1TB data capacity
- Norjopa Yoqa'te (Machine Connecting) capable
- Charging station, charges in one hour
