

Weâm Utâ'te (Selling Place)

Within the Poku Saeruo Degonjo, shopping and commerce are honored institutions. Artisans and craftsman sell their wares either through others or in their own storefronts. Some stores specialize in a particular market while others are more general. Selling places can be privately owned by individuals or families, or they may be run by Jaeli (Sects) or Ruoka (House).

Types of selling places might include examples such as:

- Weâm Utâ'te (Restaurant) - These can range from quick finger food to fancy restaurants dealing with exotic ingredients.
- Weâtât (Shop or kiosk) - A small establishment typically focusing on a very narrow market. Often found in places where people already gather for some other purpose.
