

HS-SC2-S756/01 Anoka Daho'ka (Battle Shield)

The Anoka Daho'ka (ă-nōkă dăhō-kă) is a reinforced defensive shield system developed by the Poku Saeruo Degonjo for a new class of war ship; it became available in 755 CY \(YE 36\).

About the Anoka Daho'ka

The Anoka Daho'ka was developed for to protect larger more resource intensive vessels. The Anoka Daho'ka gets its increase in shield strength by using field harmonics to intensify the shield density. The system consists of the field generators a Anoka Udano \(Gravity Shield\) integrated with a Anoka Wotanu'pa \(Defense Shield\).

A vessel with the Anoka Daho'ka still requires a Anoka Udano \(Gravity Shield\) generator for travel using Tinvyma Movidoanor \(Tunnel Drive\).

Due to the Anoka Daho'ka power requirements it is only installed on larger fighting ships.

The shield generators are always mounted in pairs, and larger vessels require more than one set. Each pair of generators require the entire output of two dedicated Âmanus Tyokanorjopa \(Anti-Hydrogen Reactor\).

Due to the amount of heat the generator produces when absorbing damage. Each generator has a nitrogen canister that is use to rapidly cool the generator down for reinitialization. Once the canister has been discharged it must be replaced after battle.
