

Cruiser-type Armory

The second to largest shipborne armory utilized by Solan Starworks aboard their military warships. Design aesthetic however is uniform, following the smooth curves and earth tones typical of Astral Commonwealth interior design. The Armory has thickly armored Strodirn panels with ADNR \(Aggregated Diamond Nanorods\) meshing, to protect the ship from any possible explosions from within the armory, and to ensure during battle the munitions and armaments remain unharmed from possible internal damage the ship may sustain and possible radiation leakage.

Note: While there are a set amount of weaponry out, there are more held within storage if necessary to further arm crew, or as replacements. This also includes additional capacitors and parts for repairs and replacements.

Pistol Racks

Usually stored within reach of most personnel, typically having their own racks including capacitor charge stations. The racks themselves are static free environments, cushioned to prevent jarring and possible damage. They're usually easily accounted for as the standard duty uniform already includes a pistol.

- 1,000x Solanii Laiz Pistol
- 2,000x Leyflar Capacitors Due to the high volume, six mass charging stations are used to keep the capacitors charged.

Carbine Racks

Carbines are usually stored on their own like the pistols due to the larger size, and as an alternative to the pistol for boarding, and anti-boarding action. Overall the Carbine is kept in a rack similar to the pistols, albeit larger to accommodate them. These are usually only issued in combat situations in which threat of boarding action occurs, or if heavier weaponry is needed. On shelf there are a number of units ready for operation, off shelf in storage are many more in case they're needed.

- 710x Solanii Laiz Carbine
- 1,420x Leyflar Capacitors Due to the high volume, four mass charging stations are used to keep the capacitors charged.

Rifle Cases

Kept in cases instead of racks, the Laiz rifle have their own section in the armory, dedicated to their upkeep, and storage. The cases usually house about one, to two hundred rifles nestled snugly to prevent jarring of any kind. The cases themselves are made of Transparent Strodirn, and have sliding doors in which to get into the cases. Electronic locking mechanisms are in place to keep them secure while not in use.

- 575x Solanii Laiz Rifle
- 1,150x Leyflar Capacitors Due to the high volume, four mass charging stations are used to keep the capacitors charged.

Melee Weapon Case

Made along the same lines as the rifle cases, the Faelraig cases are much shorter, and stockier then their rifle counterparts. But none the less adhere to the smooth curves and color tones utilized by the Iromakuanhe.

- 250x Solanii Laiz Faelraig
- 125x Leyflar Capacitors typically stored within normal charging stations along side the Faelraig.
