LSDF Family Quarters

The LSDF designed family living quarters are designed to provide accommodations for an Lorath family. Designed for civilian-style comfort, these quarters are often viewed as a peak of sorts in regard to amenities and comforts available while on deployment.

Information

Designed to serve as a housing solution for a full-size Lorath family including two to four adults, up to a dozen children, and even pets, the family-intended living quarters are quite space consuming and luxurious. The reasoning behind the design of the living quarters focuses mainly on the way which the Lorath culture places importance on family life, which made a priority to allow for deployed personnel to accommodate their family while on a long-term deployment while maintaining a high quality of life.

Features

Note: Many furnishings for the family living quarters are provided by the family assigned to the quarters.

- Multi-room construction
- Two to three bedrooms, each with a pit-style bed, closet, and family selected amenities
- Kitchen with Emfratec 'Kitchen Pal' and Organic Tissue Culture Technology
- Food storage and refrigeration chamber for personally owned food supplies
- Dining set and dining area
- General living/lounge area
- Entertainment/play room
- Workroom with desk, computer interface, and user-specific amenities
