

LSDF Officer's Wardroom

Designed to be something that is comparable to an elegant club, the officer's wardroom is intended to provide a place of social interaction for officer ranked personnel. With servant access, wet bars, a small galley, and decoration chosen by the officer staff, the officer's wardroom is a place in which work is forgotten. Loaning to the feeling of relaxation, there is an absence of workstations or command systems present, allowing for the officers present to truly leave work outside the door. Yet communications systems are still present in the event of emergency.
