

NSVM Medical Kit

Created in the year ER 545, to replace older more out-of-date medical kits, the NSVM, or Neshaten Shukara Volunteer Military, Medical Kit was designed to hold a variety of different items used for the treatment of injured people. Used not only within the military, but also outside of the military in hospitals, the kit see's plenty of use.

It was put into use in ER 550. (Before YE 00)

Appearance

The NSVM Medical Kit is a large light red bag that is fourteen inches by seven inches by eight inches. The bag has a light blue medical seal on the flap that helps seal what's inside from any outside elements. There are two exterior pouches on the sides, and one pouch on the front, both have flaps that can be used to shield the inside contents but can also be used to carry non-fragile items.

The inside of the bag is separated into sections that are either numbered or named depending on the individual for easy identification of what's in those sections. The bag has a shoulder strap so that he can be carried by individuals.

Contents

The inside of the bag is broken up into three internal sections, with the center section wider than the two side sections. There are two exterior pouches and one front pouch.
