Kusarigama

This weapon is made out of Yama-Dura and cloth. It is a scythe-like object shaped with one end larger than the other and connected by a chain. It can be sequestered in sleeves or clothing and is a lethal weapon when in the right hands. It is used by the Danko Clan, created meticulously by hand in a forge at Shiro Suzume Castle.

More about Kusarigama

The Danko Clan's kusarigama was designed by Gregor in YE 40 for use by the Danko Clan. It is based off of farming tools of old and present that are used to harvest crops. The chain and weight were added to the scythe design to make it what it is, today, the kusarigama

Appearance

On top of having a scythe-like bladed object connected to a handheld weight by a chain, the kusarigama of the Danko Clan is ornate to a degree. The weapon features a two toned blue handle on the weight that matches the straight part of the scythe-like end. The two toned blue handle has a design of two arrowheads pointing up and down, away from one another, with a curved line between them. Stemming from the straight end of the weapon is the curved blade that is sharpened and the most lethal part of the weapon. It has an engraved flower on the topmost part of the scythe-like section, where the blade moves in a 45 degree angle. The majority of the blade is the same cold and dark grey as the chain while the sharpened part of the blade is shiny silver.

Other

This item is not for sale and can only be obtained through a completed training with the Danko Clan.
