

Thrust!

Thrust! A brand of carbonated energy drinks much like the Speed! line of beverages is marketed more toward the niche audience of bodybuilders or 'juice heads'. It was AwesomeCorp's second foray into the soda industry as they began to expand the line to draw in more potential customers over a wider consumer base. It comes in an assortment of flavors for those with a more discerning palate. Despite the massive doses of protein and stimulants those who drink it purportedly liked the flavorings, the packaging (An overly muscular version of Mr.Green) and above all else the results the soda renders with its large doses of protein supplements and sugary goodness. There have however been a few people who have gone overboard on the drink which resulted in illness and quite possibly having the reverse effect. That of becoming morbidly obese. AwesomeCorp's legal divisions have pointed out numerous times that they had added warning labels on the cans and case packaging but despite this there are cases every so often that still crop up.

The recipe is a closely guarded secret with more then one corporate spy having been subjected to the infamous 'Awesomeprobe' on the bottling plant's premises. An often messy and humiliating experience.
