

"Happy-dust"

An illegal drug, it is called "Happy-dust", "Fairy-wings", or "Sweet dreams" depending on its form. Happy dust is a ruddy powder, that crosses over the mucus membrane easily, and is typically snorted. "Fairy wings" are tablets, taken orally. They take longer to take effect, but the effect usually lasts longer. "Sweet dreams" is taken orally or intravenously as a liquid. This drug is a powerful hallucinogen, randomly bonding with and triggering various nerve clusters, and quite capable of crossing the blood brain barrier. Common side effects are seizure, twitching, and hallucinations. It also effects the pleasure centers of the brain, though a bad trip can still happen. Another common side effect is addiction and the eventual degradation of functioning as it does permeate brain damage that slowly damages nerve cells, reducing their efficiency, until it kills them.
