Bulletproof Wool

Bulletproof wool is a traditional fabric made from 🐏wool blended with para-aramid (like 🛡Kevlar) fibers, and typically treated with a shear-thickening fluid. The resulting fabric is flexible, extremely resistant to penetration, and transfers less kinetic energy to the wearer than pure para-aramid bulletproof vests, and maintains its performance even when soaked wet.

Standard thickness has a damage rating of Tier 1, Light Anti-Personnel (personnel scale).

Uses

Bulletproof wool is used in:

- Traditional flak vests and flak suits used by the historic Army Of Uesureya
- Traditional Military Blanket
- Star Army Campaign Hat
