

ECV Raven

The ECV Raven is an Elysian roleplaying plot run by GM club24 that will have everyday citizens of Elysia thrust into a world of adventure and mystery, following the clues left behind by the Ancients their mission is to discover the secret to the old civilisation. The civilian team will be aboard a decommissioned E1-1a Concordia-class Scout with its weapons removed/disabled and militaristic use limited for use by non-military personnel acting purely as their private travel method and mobile home.

Plot Overview

The ECV Raven is a civilian vessel operating under the direct order of senator Barachiel Valeria through contact with officer Icarus Asellio to explore the recent emergence of the Ancients. A long-forgotten civilisation of unknown origin that left behind many traces of their old world including hidden structures, ships and technology around Elysian space many of which still hold secrets of the past. While it may be funded by the Senate and captained by an officer, the Raven is tasked with tracking down any and all information regarding the Ancients and is to reclaim artifacts whenever possible and reports directly to Barachiel alone with no official involvement by the senate.

A plot for people who are interested in a less combat intensive plot with a knack for ending up in strange places, and those who enjoy the tomb raider style of action and puzzle solving.

History

Mission 1: Catching the Scent

The first crew of the ECV Raven was tasked with exploring an ancient vessel buried beneath Elysia Novus, after breaching the old vessel several members fled. After reaching the first commons area the remaining team was attacked by a creature of unknown origin and attempted to flee to the engineering bay to restart the engines. This thread was never completed due to problems with players leaving and spanning a year, it is presumed the team managed to escape the ship and lived to tell the tale.
