About The GM

SirSkully joined the site on August the 30th 2017 but didn't do anything for a while until he was first roped into the Kaiyo-II, since then he has made it his mission to join almost every plot thrown his way alongside making too many mediocre Galactic Horizon tech submissions for the NTSE. Prior to SARP Skully has always enjoyed reading, writing and generally goofing about until he decided to stop pretending he played the 5th edition of D&D and finally started playing it, he has always had a wild imagination and has picked up decent improv skills along the way until club24 finally bullied him into starting that plot Skully kept beating himself up about.

I want people to feel free to roleplay their characters how they see fit, by no means will everything constantly be set to maximum but I want to try and leave it as open as I can without making my first plot 18+ - leave that to the Joint Posts please ^ -^

Previous Experience

Various plots, most of the characters on Skully's page are/have been involved in a plot, in addition Skully has run two 5th edition Dungeons and Dragons campaigns and generally likes to watch his characters write their own stories

History

The Firebrand Crew was registered in early YE 39 as a “high-risk salvage company” under the soon-to-be-captain Vinni Firebrand, the captain’s goal was to build the crew’s infamy within a short period of time by taking jobs intended for larger crews which carried a lot of risk but the potential for a large reward alongside a name for themselves.

The ISS Veilburner I was lost under mysterious circumstances and there is no record of the ship but Vinni Firebrand insists it was lost at the hands of pirates and that they barely escaped themselves – now the Captain is seeking to rebuild their crew and take anybody brave enough or crazy enough to pick up the mantle and don the firebrand jacket for glory and riches!
