History

The journey has only begun. For more then a year Section 6 started and grew as a part of the USO. Trying to help the people there have a better life, further technology, and make it a better place. However it became clear that was not happening, and so with a sad farewell, they set out amongst the stars for someplace to start over. Someplace to call home.

It is now YE 41, and what was once an organization called Section 6, is now reformed into a government called the New Dusk Conclave. New enemies and a different set of problems have risen. But everyday is now hopeful as life enters a normal flow, and as the dream of a new world is realized. But later in the year, that hope was shattered as a new enemy who knew their way past their defenses, and how to impede their communications network, struck. Nothing was known about the reapers, or who sent them, but they made sure to leave nothing in the way of answers. As the body count rose, and the blood flowed through the earlier morning, their bodies slugged themselves leaving nothing behind.

Even months later, the NDC was no closer to answers, only been able to mourn those lost in the attack. Their agent aboard ISS Brimstone still searched however, only to stumble into a plot that quickly brought about startling revelations, as well as more fears.

(history gap?)

After the successful founding of the New Dusk Conclave, the young faction looked to expand its borders to secure new resources and gain security for its growing home system. SX-01 "Vale" was identified as a suitable system. After arriving with ships full of civilians, they discovered that the system was not as uninhabited as it had seemed and a battle for control between the NDC's colonization forces and a band of Kuvexian-backed pirate raiders.
