History

The OIF Karakoram's first mission was a shakedown run which was also intended to catch pirates along its trial course. Unfortunately, information on the ship's course had been spread prior to its launch, causing the ship to not see any pirates during its first journey, and having an extremely uneventful shakedown.

Almost a year after the first Shakedown began, the Karakoram set out on its second journey, this time hoping to be more on top of things and actually find some pirates to hunt.
