

Artume

Artume is the third of the new worlds to be colonized by the Elysian Celestial Empire, and the one which has perhaps the greatest habitation potential.

The system contains three habitable planets, requiring minimal terra-forming, and a series of five sizable and rich gas giants.

Artume's skies are covered in a vast collection of lights and colors, the former a mixture of natural elements, from trees to rocks to meteors.

Artume also possesses a multitude of oceans, though they could use many more years of careful mining and exploration.

Artume is relatively safe due to being without a major political and military rival, as well as its relatively rich infrastructure. However, some outsiders may be dissatisfied with how the majority of Artume's populace turned out.
