

Bravo Prototype Force

The BPF, colloquially known as “Blue Stripes” are a group of Duskerian special operations soldiers, tasked specifically with the field testing and evaluation of prototype and early production equipment for the NDC Ground Forces "Duskerian Legion". They are hand selected by members of the force and Department Of Advanced Research And Development \(D.O.A.R.A.D.\) from the ranks of the Legion and the Conclave Aerospace and Fleet Forces.

History

Bravo team was one of three elite covert operations teams employed by Saber and Section 6, established in YE 39. They specialize in orbital insertions, overwhelming firepower, and search and destroy operations. They were, however, disbanded after the Exodus of YE 40

This team is hand selected from Saber and Skyguard infantry forces by Jack Pine and is supplied with prototype equipment by Rose Ironhart-Pine.

Later in YE 42, the Blue Stripe was reactivated as a dedicated proving ground assignment, a garrison force devoted solely to the preservation of Duskerian Legion lives by ensuring that only the best equipment is selected.

Equipment standard

- Dress Uniform:

All current and former members of the force are to wear a blue tassel at the right hip of the NDC Enlisted Dress Uniform

- Power Armor:

- Standard Uniform:

- Standard Equipment:

Follow normal regulation.

- Nonstandard/prototypes:

All nonstandard and prototype equipment will be clearly marked with blue pin striping on corners and edges.
